About

Description

Magnus is attorney, specializing in construction law and real estate by combining legal expertise with a deep understanding of the commercial interests that drive the construction industry.

In his work, Magnus advises public and private stakeholders on construction law challenges in some of Denmark's largest building projects. He has extensive experience with the AB system and FIDIC and works strategically to safeguard his clients' interests throughout the entire project.

His expertise in dispute resolution, including litigation and arbitration, makes him a strong partner in legal conflicts. He prioritizes pragmatic solutions such as settlements and mediation whenever possible but is also an experienced litigator who works determinedly to achieve the best possible outcomes in court.

When advising his clients, Magnus combines an analytical approach, business acumen, and the ability to navigate complex legal landscapes.
